NEW YORK STATE ONE PER CENT RETAIL SALES TAX

IN ADDITION TO BID PRICES PURCHASERS ARE OBLIGATED TO PAY AN AMOUNT EQUAL TO ONE PER CENT (1%) OF THEIR BID PRICES, UNLESS A SUITABLE CERTIFICATE IS FURNISHED THAT THE PURCHASES ARE MADE FOR RESALE

CONDITIONS OF SALE

[1]

All bids to be PER PIECE as numbered in the catalogue, unless otherwise mentioned.

[2]

The highest bidder to be the buyer. In all cases of disputed bids the lot shall be resold, but the auctioneer will use his judgment as to the good faith of all claims, and his decision shall be final.

[3]

Any bid which is not commensurate with the value of the article offered, or which is merely a nominal or fractional advance, may be rejected by the auctioneer if in his judgment such bid would be likely to affect the sale injuriously.

[4]

The name of the buyer of each lot shall be given immediately after the sale thereof, and when so required, each buyer shall sign a card giving the lot number, amount for which sold, and his or her name and address. ¶ A deposit at the actual time of the sale shall be made of all or such part of the purchase prices as may be required. ¶ If the two foregoing conditions are not complied with, the lot or lots so purchased may at the option of the auctioneer be put up again and resold.

[5]

Title passes upon the fall of the auctioneer's hammer, and thereafter the property is at the purchaser's risk, and neither the owner nor the Company is responsible for the loss of, or any damage to any article by theft, fire, breakage, however occasioned, or any other cause whatsoever.

[6]

Articles not paid for in full and not called for by the purchaser by noon of the day following that of the sale may be turned over by the Company to some carter to be carried to and stored in some warehouse until the time of the delivery therefrom to the purchaser, and the cost of such cartage and storage and any other charges will be charged against the purchaser, and the risk of loss or damage occasioned by such removal or storage will be upon the purchaser. ¶ In any instance where the bill has not been paid in full by noon of the day following that of the sale, the Company reserves the right, any other stipulation in these conditions of sale to the contrary notwithstanding, in respect to any or all lots included in the bill, at its option, either to cancel the sale thereof or to resell the same at public or private sale without further notice for the account of the buyer and to hold the buyer responsible for any deficiency sustained in so doing.

[7]

The Company exercises great care to catalogue every lot correctly and endeavors therein and also at the actual time of the sale to point out any error, defect, or imperfection, but guaranty is not made either by the owner or the Company of the correctness of the description, genuineness, authenticity or condition of any lot, and no sale will be set aside on account of any incorrectness, error of cataloguing or imperfection not noted or pointed out. Every lot is sold "as is" and without recourse.

[8]

Buying or bidding by the Company for responsible parties on orders transmitted to it by mail, telegraph, or telephone, if conditions permit, will be faithfully attended to without charge. Any purchases so made will be subject to the foregoing conditions of sale. Orders for execution by the Company should be given with such clearness as to leave no room for misunderstanding. Not only should the lot number be given, but also the name of the object, and a bid on several objects catalogued under a single number should be stated to be so much per piece unless the description contains the notation "[Lot.]", in which case the bid should be stated to be so much FOR THE LOT. If the one transmitting the order is unknown to the Company, a deposit must be sent or reference submitted. Shipping directions should also be given.

[9]

The Company will afford every facility for the employment of carriers and packers by the purchasers, but will not be responsible for any damage arising from the acts of such carriers and packers.

These Conditions of Sale Cannot be Altered Except by an Officer of the Company

THE COLLECTION OF MRS. ROCKEFELLER McCORMICK

THE IDEA of magnificence was well understood in the days of Duke Lorenzo of Florence; for magnificence, in its Latin etymology, is magnus facere, to make great. The power of the patron was the power to exercise in the fullest degree a discernment which, selecting fastidiously from the wealth of art which surrounded him, gave to that which was chosen the quality of distinction—that is, distilled greatness. Such a selection could be characteristic of the turbulent masterfulness of a despot like Lorenzo; it might equally well—as in the present collection—express the felicity of one of the most benevolent women of her time. There is in the McCormick collection a luxury containing little of hedonism, the elegance of a feminine taste delighting in the intrinsic beauty of such things as fine laces and tapestries, and capable of fulfilling itself by lending the one to a museum and endowing the research necessary for a monograph on the other.

LACES

The laces of the collection are, indeed, among the finest in America, and are known to a wide public through the generosity of their owner in lending them freely; they were exhibited in the museums of Buffalo, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Rochester, and Detroit in 1922-23, and were on permanent loan at the Art Institute of Chicago from 1924 until last year.

Beginning with the fifteenth and early sixteenth century reticella of Venice and Florence, a simple geometrical type of lace evolved from cut-work, we are confronted by an extraordinary wealth of sumptuous needle and pillow laces of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries in beautiful compositions such as the point de Venise and Milan coverlets [Numbers 606 and 610]. Delicacy of technique reaches its apex in the superb seventeenth century point de Venise cover [Number 603] with its fragile masses of honeysuckle and peonies and its maze of delicate brides; this is a votive offering—probably to one of the North Italian cathedrals—as evidenced by the emblem of the pelican in her Piety. A later reproduction, which may serve for purposes of comparison, is the banqueting cloth in Venise à relief [Number 616] with a Bérainesque pattern in the Louis XIV taste and of a sophistication derived from the points de France worked under Colbert in emulation of the Venetian laces. An excellent instance of skill in composition is a seventeenth century group of laces [Numbers 604 and 605] in which the free-patterned Venise and Milan laces are combined with the Flemish lace termed point d'Angleterre, notable for the fineness of its réseau mesh. A considerable repertory of linen fil tiré, mostly of the Sicilian type, blends admirably with the virile 'wheel' patterns of the reticella, in simpler coverlets [Numbers 608 and 615].

FRENCH AND ENGLISH SILVER

The wealth of silver plate is headed by the magnificent Napoleon-Borghese vermeil service [Numbers 628 to 773] which was originally owned by Pauline Bonaparte, sister of Napoleon I, and her husband, Prince Camillo Borghese. In the extensive introduction which prefaces the service, we have outlined its historical importance. We may add here that it supplies documentary evidence of the success of the attempt by the artist and craftsman of the First Empire to re-establish the fundamentals of design laid down in the works of the ancients. The aim was clearly stated; the architects, Percier and Fontaine, who are largely responsible for the Classical Revival, endeavored "to contribute, to spread, and establish in branches of art of such variability and so dependent on the vicissitudes of the freaks of fashion and public opinion, principles of taste inspired by works of antiquity". The service was exhibited at the Art Institute of Chicago, and has undoubtedly contributed something of value to the education of the contemporary designer.

The English silver of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries includes important examples of the work of the two outstanding silversmiths of the Georgian period: Paul Lamerie, by whom are a set of twelve plates [Number 818], and Paul Storr, from whose hand comes a fine pair of covered tureens [Number 815]. From the ten-year period of the Commonwealth (1649-1659) is the caudle or posset cup and cover [Number 816] by Andrew Moore, an object of great rarity—as is all English silver made before the Restoration—and bearing the mark of one of the few identified makers of the period.

Reverting to the influence of antique design, we find among the English plate a pair of magnificent gilded silver wine coolers [Number 822] designed by John Flaxman, R.A., the most important English sculptor of the Georgian period, who was responsible for so many of the finest works of the Wedgwood factory. Among the French silver is a portion of the luxurious gilded silver service ordered by Count Nikolai Demidoff from Odiot, the court goldsmith of the First Empire. This consists of two soupières [Numbers 823 and 824] designed by Thomire, and four oviform platters [Numbers 825 and 826] bearing the arms of Mme. de la Chapelle, a recipient of Count Demidoff's generosity and an associate of the Imperial family.

JEWELRY AND FURS

As might be expected, the precious-stone jewelry is of the first workmanship. A remarkable pair of ruby and diamond earrings [Number 476]; a ring containing an emerald-cut diamond of 5½ carats and a button-shaped Oriental pearl of 15 grains [Number 465]; two sapphire bracelets [Numbers 471 and 472], one containing thirty beautiful emerald-cut stones; and a pair of diamond, pearl, and emerald earrings [Number 480] exemplify the quality of the pieces. The last is of unique design, one earring being centred with a fine pear-shaped emerald, the other with a black pearl drop of the same contour. The reversible pendant [Number 475] has one hundred and nine diamonds and a garniture of three remarkable pearls: a pink conch and a black and a white Oriental pear-shaped pearl, the two latter weighing each about 60 grains. A large necklace with breastplate [Number 481] contains about eighteen hundred diamonds, including two large stones; it is admirably suited, under present conditions, for remodeling into a number of smaller pieces.

The furs, which will also be offered in the third session of the sale, are: a short coat of Peruvian chinchilla; a Russian ermine cape; a coat [Number 563] of Russian sables from the Yakutsk district, the finest trapped; and the magnificent chinchilla wrap [Number 564] containing one hundred perfectly matched Bolivian skins.

FRENCH FURNITURE

In essence, the furniture and decorations of the collection show the strong classical bias of Mrs. McCormick's taste. The decorative material throughout, in fact, is in the Directoire and Empire styles, and includes sumptuous candelabra by Thomire and others. Much of the finest furniture is covered in tapestry of the period. We select for especial mention a pair of Directoire Beauvais tapestry bergères [Number 874] with frames attributable to the maître ébéniste Georges Jacob; an exquisite Gobelins tapestry three-fold screen [Number 875] signed by J. B. Oudry, the famous designer of the Fables, and dated 1747; a Louis XV tulipwood marqueterie commode [Number 877], one of the few rococo meubles; and a Louis XVI inlaid and bronze doré work table [Number 870]. A Directoire suite consisting of a settee and four armchairs covered in silk needlepoint [Numbers 883-885] has also the refinement of contour and restraint of design associated with the work of Jacob.

TAPESTRIES AND RUGS

The four Gothic tapestries have been dealt with at length in the catalogue. Of these the beautiful pair of Tournai hunting tapestries [Numbers 907 and 908], dating from about 1520, can be attributed, thanks to the researches of de la Grange and Cloquet and of Dr. Phyllis Ackerman, to the cartoons of Gilles le Castre, who worked in the orbit of the famous Le Feire family, and to the ateliers of the weaving house of the Poissoniers. This documentation is of especial interest because these Gothic hunting tapestries with central paddock enclosures are widely known as among the happiest compositions of the period; a pair was sold at these galleries in the de Kermaingant collection of 1926, lacking, however, the lively coloring and costume detail of the present hangings. The large verdure [Number 909], also perhaps from the Poissonier workshops at Tournai, shows in an interesting degree the influence of the Renaissance transition of the reign of François I^{er}, the border recapitulating the urns and leaf-scrollings found in the panel carvings of the period. The boldly scrolling acanthus verdure is enlivened with an extraordinary menagerie of birds and beasts, a product of the surprising capacity in the observation of wild life found in many of the best works of mediaeval art. A rare millefleurs tapestry of about the same period, after Antoine Fierret, son and pupil of the great Pierre [Number 911], and woven perhaps in Oudenaarde, has a warm tan ground of unusual hue and a fanciful design of four garlanded roundels portraying naïve Rustic Proverbs. This hanging was shown at the Loan Exhibition of Gothic Tapestries in Chicago in December, 1926.

The Renaissance tapestries are mostly of Brussels weave and the favored small-figure type: notable are a garden tapestry [Number 905], with pergolas, and a long frieze hanging, A Carthaginian Triumph [Number 906]. A seventeenth century Brussels tapestry depicting a stag-hunt [Number 910] has the lavish movement and rich coloring of the period, and bears the selvage signature of an unidentified atelier.

In conjunction with the tapestries, we may refer to the small number of fine rugs, which include several beautiful Tabriz reproductions of the old Persian vase carpets. A Viennese Empire rug [Number 918] is a rarity of the first order; and the Ch'ien-lung palace carpet [Number 916] an eighteenth century Chinese rug of important size.

CHINESE ART

In the presence of a group of works of Chinese plastic art, the Occidental is often sensible of an uneasy feeling of worldliness, due perhaps to his opaque (and unspiritual) mobility. These Celestial Buddhas, Kuan Yins, and guardian lions, old and new, seem invested alike with a serene and immovable air of distance. Here is a virile bronze Fu-lion from a Sianfu temple [Number 846], cast under the T'ang dynasty eleven centuries ago; and here a beautiful green jade Boddhisattva of our time [Number 849], both with the same expression of unscrutinizing eternity. The great gilded temple figure of Kuan Yin [Number 857] seated with extended arms, one of the master-works of the T'ang period, has indeed a wealth of subtle sculptural rhythms in the movements of the body and the draperies; but omniscience dwells in the still head. A rare bronze Buddha [Number 859] of the fifth century confronts one with apocalyptic promise.

Whence comes the inexhaustible craft-energy, this restless passion for transmuting plants and minerals into the unchanging carved shapes of canonical legend? Look at the pagoda-form incense burner [Number 856] with its three tiers of ornamental detail, the opulent spinach jade parrots [Number 853], and the pirouetting coral figures of laughing mei jên [Numbers 851 and 852] and see if there is to be found in the expression of the Buddha that which has caused them to be created, by the labor of infinite patience, out of stone and branch. The real mystery of China is a kindly mystery: we are left to admire and to wonder at the tenacity of tradition in the service of the high gods.

The other half of the collection is described in a separate catalogue, and comprises the furnishings of Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's residence at 1000 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, and her villa at Lake Forest, Illinois; these will be sold on the premises under the direction of the American Art Association-Anderson Galleries, Inc., the week following the New York sale. The contents of the house and villa include fine French furniture, Italian Renaissance furniture and decorations, Roman marbles, rugs, laces, porcelain, silver, and glass.

The skins are well matched and the workmanship excellent throughout, with a fine silk reinforcement sewed to the back of the skins to prevent ripping due to undue strain, and the general condition of the garment shows that it has received a minimum of wear. Silver-brocaded satin lining, the collar lined in gray panne velvet. Length, 30 inches

563. FINE RUSSIAN SABLE COAT

Coat with shawl collar, composed of approximately fifty-eight genuine Russian sables coming from the Yakutsk region of Siberia, where the finest sables are found; these sables are slightly sprinkled with natural silvery hairs, showing that they are genuine, and are worked vertically, with border (of approximately sixteen skins) running horizontally. The workmanship is excellent throughout and the skins are stayed with a special backing to prevent ripping due to undue strain. The coat is lined in fawn panne velvet. The entire garment shows practically no wear and appears to be in almost the same condition as it was when purchased. Length, 36 inches

3400-

564. MAGNIFICENT CHINCHILLA WRAP WITH SILVER FOX COLLAR

Wide cape consisting of one hundred unusually choice Bolivian genuine chinchilla skins, well matched, and artistically arranged with the skins running vertically and a five-stripe horizontal border. A narrow silver fox band runs the entire length of the standing collar. The workmanship is excellent and the coat has evidently been put together by skilled artisans; the skins have a backing of fine China silk to prevent ripping due to undue strain. The coat is lined with a very fine silver metallic brocade, and the garment is in excellent condition, showing almost no sign of wear. The silver fox collar is slightly faded. Length, 43 inches

2400-

565. Russian Ermine Cape

Wide cape with deep cape collar, composed of approximately two hundred and seventy-five skins, worked vertically with a horizontal border varying from ten to eighteen inches in depth. The skins are of the finest quality Russian ermine of the Ishima section, well placed and beautifully manufactured. The workmanship throughout is excellent, and extra protection is provided by an inner lining attached to the back of the skins. The cape is lined in ivory panne velvet and gold-brocaded satin, the collar in beige plush. Length, 41 inches

THE EDITH ROCKEFELLER McCORMICK COLLECTION OF MUSEUM LACES

THE following nineteen lots [Numbers 597-615] comprise an outstanding collection of fine laces purchased by Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick from Simon Vixler of Zurich. These laces have been shown at many of the important museums of this country: they were exhibited at the Buffalo Fine Arts Academy in Oct., 1922; at the Brooklyn Museum in Apr., 1923; at the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art, Philadelphia, Oct., 1923; at the Memorial Art Gallery, Rochester, N. Y., Nov., 1923; at the Detroit Institute of Arts, March, 1924; and finally at the Art Institute of Chicago from 1924 to 1932, whence they were removed after the death of their owner. The collection is especially rich in Italian point laces and fil tiré of the sixteenth and seventeenth century, and the composition of the individual cloths and coverlets has been carried out with a high degree of artistic skill.

597. Point de Venise Lace Chalice Cover XVII Century

Beautifully worked in ivory point, outlined with raised cordonnets, in a design of bushy floral scrollings linked by delicate plain brides and centring the figure of a dove with spread wings; within a delicate border of blossoms and scrollings of foliage. 22 inches square

598. POINT DE MILAN, VENISE, AND FLANDERS LACE COVERLET

XVI-XVII Century

The centre is composed of Flanders pillow lace with a delicate design of baroque scrolling plants curving in alternate directions, and bearing tiny blossoms and buds; this is contained within borders of mezzo punto tape lace and the flat guipure de Venise of the sixteenth century, with running designs of floral scrollings. At either side are broad flounces of point de Milan, of Spanish workmanship, with a typical Spanish Renaissance design of formal jardinières of flowers and foliage, separated by stiff upstanding floral shrubs. At either end is a border with baroque floral pattern.

7 feet 6 inches square

599. GOTHIC RETICELLA LACE AND CUT LINEN COVERLET XVI Century

A magnificent compendium of the earliest forms of Florentine and Venetian lace, consisting of three oblong panels of the finest linen, drawn and centred with a design of cruciform rosettes forming a species of tile pattern, each rosette patterned with a different variation of the stellate filling; this is bordered with narrow entredeux of reticella and a point de Venise with delicate undulating floral design, and finished off with a deep flounce of beautiful Florentine reticella with rosetted wheel designs and vandyked edges, two rows alternately filled with punto tirato linen squares with a contrasting tile pattern.

Length, 8 feet 6 inches; width, 7 feet 4 inches

600. POINT DE MILAN AND FLANDERS LACE COVERLET XVII Century

Centre panel of guipure de Flandre, with a bold baroque design of reverse scrollings bearing lilies and delicate foliage, between two broad bands of mezzo punto patterned with floral shrubs of tape lace linked by brides; together with deep flounces of Spanish lace, each patterned with three jardinières of flowers in an irregular réseau, the narrow end flounces of point de Milan with a design of rococo foliage.

Length, 7 feet 7 inches; width, 7 feet 6 inches

601. POINT DE MILAN ET DE VENISE LACE COVERLET XVII Century

The centre is patterned in point de Milan with tall interlacing branches of flowers and foliage in an hexagonal réseau, between bands of fine coraline point de Venise patterned with elaborate arabesques of floral scrollings linked by brides picotées, and enclosed by outer bands of point de Milan developing scrolled floral motives; the whole bordered with entredeux of point plat de Venise, with a Renaissance scroll design and flounces of point de Milan developing at one end a pattern of upstanding floral shrubs in the Spanish style.

Length, 7 feet 6 inches; width, 6 feet 8 inches

602. POINT DE MILAN ET DE VENISE LACE COVERLET XVII Century

Companion to the preceding.

Length, 7 feet 6 inches; width, 6 feet 8 inches

603. MAGNIFICENT GROS POINT DE VENISE LACE COVER

Late XVII Century

The bold design, symmetrical in all its rich detail, develops tall scrolling branches of peonies, honeysuckle, lilies, and other blossoms with diversified foliage, outlined with heavy padded cordonnets and embellished with a variety of fillings with delightful diaper designs of all kinds; the pattern is linked up by delicate brides picotées, and is centred with a group at the lower end depicting a pelican in her Piety, a Eucharistic device implying a religious purpose for the work. The cover is finished with a delicate border of scrolling floral motives.

Length, 7 feet 6 inches; width, 6 feet 8 inches

604. POINT D'ANGLETERRE, VENISE, ET MILAN LACE COVERLET

XVII Century

Centre panel of Flemish point lace termed point d'Angleterre, patterned with spatulate floral devices within serpentine frameworks of foliage in a fine and delicate réseau; flanked by entredeux of guipure plat de Venise, point de Milan with flowing design of leaf-scrollings and the finest point vermiculé de Venise, with a tracery of minute ribbon loops. At the sides are flounces of point d'Angleterre with a variation of the design of the centre panel, more freely rendered; the whole surrounded by a border of point de Milan patterned with trailing branches of flowers in a bold réseau.

Length, 7 feet 9 inches; width, 6 feet 7 inches

THE MAGNIFICENT GILDED SILVER SERVICE OF PRINCE CAMILLO BORGHESE AND PAULINE BONAPARTE, SISTER OF EMPEROR NAPOLEON I

This table service [Numbers 628-773] of vermeil (gilded silver) was originally owned by Prince Camillo Borghese, son of Marcantonio III. Born at Rome in 1775, he attached himself to the French cause on their entrance into Italy, and in 1803 received from Napoleon the hand of his sister, Pauline, widow of General Leclerc. He was afterwards created Duke of Guastalla, and governor-general of the trans-Alpine provinces; he died in 1832 and left an immense fortune to his brother, Francesco Borghese Aldobrandini. Pauline, or Marie Pauline Bonaparte, sister of Napoleon I, was born at Ajaccio in 1780; she was the most beautiful of the family, and is praised for her generosity to the poor. Canova made a statue of her, which is said to resemble the Venus of Praxiteles; she died at Florence in 1825. The service bears the Borghese arms, which consist of a dragon and a crowned eagle displayed against a ducal mantel and surmounted by a crown; this crown is not the usual one of the Borghese family, which we find only on a small number of pieces, but the Imperial French crown used by Napoleon, an important detail, for besides establishing the period it supports the tradition that the major part of the service was ordered by Napoleon as a gift for his sister and his brother-in-law.

The service is composed of about one thousand six hundred pieces, weighing upwards of eleven thousand seven hundred ounces, and the greater part of it is the work of the two celebrated Paris goldsmiths Martin Guillaume Biennais and Jean Baptiste Claude Odiot, and others working in collaboration, executed after the designs of Percier and Fontaine; architects who, in company with Prud'hon and Thomire, are largely responsible for the style which soon permeated every capital of Europe. Having lived for a long time in Rome, Percier and Fontaine were inspired by the works of antiquity and based their designs directly upon them. The influence of these designs was of the greatest; a number of the royal and princely palaces in Europe were remodeled between 1800 and 1815 and redecorated after the prevailing French fashion. Among the most important were Windsor Castle, the Royal Palace and the Escorial in Spain, the Royal Palace at the Hague, and the Würzburg Palace in Bavaria. Vide: Henri Bouillet, L'Orfèvrerie française, and Henry Bouchot, Le Luxe français sous L'Empire.

Martin Guillaume Biennais, active in Paris 1800-32, was goldsmith to the Emperor and signed much of his work in this way. He made the Imperial insignia at the Emperor's Coronation, the swords used on state occasions, and the altar for the ceremony of Napoleon's marriage with the Archduchess Marie Louise. It was from Biennais that Napoleon ordered the beautifully ornamented sword which he offered to the Tsar Alexander I at Erfurt, the dressing case which Marie Louise offered to Emperor Francis of Austria, and the traveling outfit for the King of Rome. Vide: Edouard Leisching, Kunst und Kunsthandwerk, 1904, Die Reise-Service des Königs von Rom.

Jean Baptiste Claude Odiot (1753-1850) was, with Biennais, the most important goldsmith of the First Empire Period in France. After the Paris Exhibition of 1802, which established his fame, the enumeration of his clients would, according to Henri Bouillet, "constitute an almanac of all the most distinguished, rich, and titled people in Europe". Like his great contemporary, he executed in silver and gold the designs of the painter Prud'hon and the architects Percier and Fontaine. Among the most important works by Odiot are the famous 'toilette' of Marie Louise ordered in 1810 by the city of Paris, and the cradle of the King of Rome, a masterpiece which is still in existence and now forms a part of the Imperial Treasury in Vienna. Odiot's work is generally signed 'ODIOT' in full, or with his monogram, J B C O.

The present service, which is comparable to the tea and dessert services in the Imperial Russian collections, was offered at public sale in 1892 in the Borghese Palace, Rome, where it was bought en bloc by Prince Baucina, in whose possession it remained until purchased by Mr. Ercole Canessa, who sold it to Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick. The entire service was exhibited at the Art Institute of Chicago from June, 1924, until November, 1932.

794. Pair English Silver Urn-shaped Tureens

Reily & Storer, London, 1837

580 Classic urn on square base, decorated with a band of molded acanthus volutes on a matted ground, the socle with radiating acanthus leaves; handles formed as juxtaposed serpents seizing a sphere, the cover surmounted by a fir cone finial springing from radiating acanthus leaves, the border molded with egg-and-dart motive. Loose silver liner. Weight of each, about 85 ounces. Height, 9¼ inches; diameter, 10 inches

Note: This pair of tureens and the following tureen merit praise for their design and workmanship, in which is seen a perpetuation of the fine classicism which characterizes English silversmithing of the later eighteenth century.

795. English Silver Urn-shaped Tureen Reily & Storer, London, 1837

350 Matching the preceding. Weight, about 170 ounces.

Height, 13 inches; length, 17 inches

From Nachemsohn (of London), Chicago

804. Pair George IV Silver Entrée Dishes with Covers

Robert Garrard, London, 1825

Shaped oblong dish with domed cover, the borders finely molded with gadroon, acanthus, and shell ornament; the reeded and foliated handles are detachable, permitting the cover to be used as an extra dish; engraved with an armorial escutcheon and a crest. Length, 12 inches

Note: The firm of Garrard has held the title of 'Gold- and Silversmiths to the Crown' for probably a century or more, and they have made practically all of the official silverware for use by the British Government and its various departments, in addition to the services used by the King and Queen on formal occasions.

From Nachemsohn (of London), Chicago

805. Pair George IV Silver Entrée Dishes with Covers

Robert Garrard, London, 1825

Similar to the preceding. Length, 12 inches

From Nachemsohn (of London), Chicago

806. Pair William IV Silver Entrée Dishes with Sheffield Plate Heaters, Made for George Fitzclarence, 1st Earl of Munster

William Bateman, London, 1835

Circular dish in solid silver, the edge molded with gadroon and shell ornament; the domed cover with gadrooned border, the handle in the form of a crowned lion standing on an ermine chapeau, and engraved with the arms of the 1st Earl of Munster, which are the royal arms of William IV without the escutcheon of the Arch Treasurer of the Holy Roman Empire, with the motto Nec Temere Nec Timide. Set into Sheffield plate heater, with foliage and shell-chased handles and feet.

Height, 11½ inches; length, 13½ inches

Note: George Fitzclarence, 1st Earl of Munster, was elevated to the peerage June 4, 1831, and was later aide-de-camp to Queen Victoria, Lieutenant of the Tower, and Governor of Windsor Castle.

807. Pair William IV Silver Entrée Dishes, with Sheffield Plate Heaters, Made for George Fitzclarence, 1st Earl of Munster

William Bateman, London, 1835

Similar to the preceding. Height, 11½ inches; length, 13½ inches

808. William IV Repoussé Gilded Silver Oval Plaque

Benjamin Smith (?), London, 1837

The cavetto finely decorated in repoussé with Morland rustic figures and a dog walking in a pasture flanked by groves of trees; the wide flanged border with fruits, vegetables, and birds in high relief on a matted or stippled ground, the rim dentiled. Monogrammed on back.

Length, 24 inches

809. William IV Repoussé Gilded Silver Oval Plaque

Benjamin Smith (?), London, 1837

Somewhat similar to the preceding, but smaller. Monogrammed on back.

Length, 18½ inches

810. English Chased Gilded Silver Candelabrum

John S. Hunt, London, 1840

Formed as a cluster of lilies containing sconces for seven lights, surmounting a circular pillar which flares widely at the base and is chased with descending leaves, vine, shells, and acanthus. Engraved coat of arms and crests. Weight, about 230 ounces. Height, 37 inches

811. George III Gilded Silver Relief Plaque

William Pitts, London, 1810

Large circular charger depicting a feast of the gods, a group of figures in high relief around a table laden with fish; in the upper left appear two small figures in Oriental garb. The wide border or marli shows a frieze of river gods alternating with grotesque masks, upon a matted ground, and below each mask three juxtaposed dolphins. The rim is molded with a free interpretation of the egg-and-dart motive. Weight, about 220 ounces. Diameter, 24½ inches

Note: This fine plaque illustrates a successful attempt to reproduce a masterpiece of Renaissance art, with variations on the theme.

From Howard and Co., New York

812. George III Silver Mirror Plateau

Matthew Boulton, Birmingham, 1806

Oblong table plateau in three sections, the silver frame with beaded border and leonine feet. Lined with mahogany.

Length, 50 inches; width, 16½ inches

813. George III Silver 'Temple of Flora' Epergne London, 1804

Table centrepiece formed as a pergola composed of four caryatids supporting openwork baskets in their hands; on their heads rests a trellised openwork dome chiseled in beautiful leaf tracery design and surmounted by an acanthus finial. This enshrines a statuette of Flora holding a cornucopia of flowers. The whole surmounts a shaped plinth chased with a frieze of foliage arabesques and supported on four winged sphinxes. Maker's mark, P C in an oblong shield, on the main structure. The statuette, griffins, and caryatids are the work of Rundell, Bridge and Rundell, royal goldsmiths. Monogrammed. Weight, about 345 ounces. Height, 22½ inches; width, 13 inches

500

Note: An interesting example of English silversmithing in the classic manner, based directly on a design of Robert Adam.

814. Pair George IV Silver-mounted Sheffield Plate Entrée Dishes with Covers and Heaters Philip Roundell, London, 1821

The domed oblong cover with molded gadroon, shell, and leaf border, surmounted by a solid silver crest composed of a lion's head emerging from a flame, and stamped with maker's mark and date letter; dish with similarly molded border, set into oblong heater with loose liner and finely chased handles and feet. Height, 9½ inches; length, 12½ inches

500

Collection of the Earl and Countess of Breadalbane, Dunholme House, Daventry, Northamptonshire

815. Pair George III Silver Tureens, with Sheffield Plate Heaters Paul Storr, London, 1808

Oblong dish with domed cover of solid silver, the borders molded with gadroon and leaf ornament, the detachable handle similarly molded. Engraved with a coat of arms and a crest with the motto Sequanur. Set into Sheffield plate heater with gadroon sides, foliated handles, and ball feet. Height, 9½ inches; length, 15 inches

1300

Note: The preëminence of Paul Storr is exemplified in this pair of beautiful tureens.

816. Very Rare Cromwellian Silver Caudle or Posset Cup and Cover. Andrew Moore, London, 1657

Swelling body encircled by a series of oval acanthus medallions in repoussé, intersected by small shells and punched work. At either side are larger medallions, one enclosing an escutcheon charged with a cross, a lion, and three daggers. The two foliated scroll handles develop winged female busts. The slightly rounded cover, decorated with similar acanthus medallions in repoussé, has a twisted ring handle and is engraved with a crest. Four marks stamped under the cover and on the base, and an almost obliterated mark below the rim.

Height, 6 inches; width, 8½ inches

Note: The exceptional rarity of English silver of the Commonwealth period is attributable to the religious fanaticism in evidence at that time, when a tremendous amount of church and other silver plate was deliberately destroyed or melted down as too worldly to suit the puritanical taste of the zealots who, for a time, controlled England. Added to this situation was the impecunious condition to which many families were reduced by civil war.

The Worshipful Company of Coach Makers in London possesses a standing cup by this silversmith, and two alms dishes by the same maker are in the Church of St. Vedast, London.

Exhibited at the Art Institute of Chicago, 1928

From Crichton Bros., Chicago

817. Rare Charles II Silver Plate London, 1672

250

Diameter, 9½ inches

Collection of Brainard Lemon, Louisville, Ky., 1928

Exhibited at the Arts Club, Chicago

818. TWELVE VERY FINE AND RARE GEORGE II SILVER PLATES BY PAUL LAMERIE London, 1746

Beautiful plain plate with shaped border, the rim molded with gadroon and relief ornament, the border engraved with the arms and crest of the 1st Earl of Tyrone. Four marks underneath, comprising the date letter, crowned leopard's head, lion passant, and the maker's mark; the latter consists of the script letters P L, a crown above, a mullet below, in a shaped shield. Weight of each, about 18 ounces. Diameter, 9½ inches

1920-

Note: Paul Lamerie ranks as the outstanding English silversmith of the eighteenth century. French by birth, he emigrated to England with the many other Huguenots who left France after the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes. His work consistently maintains a high quality and much of it is directly inspired by the designs of the Frenchman, Daniel Marot.

Sir Marcus Beresford was created 1st Earl of Tyrone in July, 1746. This set of twelve plates was made during the same year that witnessed his elevation to the Peerage of Ireland.

819. TWELVE GEORGE I SILVER PLATES London, 1716

Beautiful plain plate of somewhat similar in design to the preceding, the shaped border molded with gadroon ornament and engraved with a coat of arms and crest. Stamped with three marks on reverse. Weight of each, about 18 ounces. Diameter, 9½ inches

780-

From Crichton Bros., Chicago

820. TWELVE GEORGE I SILVER PLATES London, circa 1717

Beautiful plain plate somewhat similar in design to the preceding, the shaped border molded with gadroon ornament. Stamped with four marks and engraved with a small crest. Inscribed on back E R McC, October 29, 1912. Weight of each, about 19 ounces.

840-

Diameter, 9¾ inches

821. TWELVE EARLY GEORGIAN SILVER PLATES London, circa 1737

720-

822. Important Pair George III Gilded Silver Wine Coolers Designed by John Flaxman

Benjamin and James Smith, London, 1810

Magnificent campana urn, the body decorated in low relief with a procession of mythological deities, above which runs a band of grapevine; the lower part of the body has acanthus and flowers which radiate from the socle and, at either side, a reeded loop handle terminating in bearded male masks. The flaring rim is molded with gadroon ornament and beading, and the flat rim of the liner is ornamented with an applied running band of grapevine. The body is supported on four juxtaposed chimerae composed of lion-footed winged monsters with rams' heads, resting on a quatrefoil base. Weight of each, about 245 ounces.

Height, 13 inches; diameter, 10 inches

Note: John Flaxman (1755-1826), the outstanding English sculptor and draughtsman of his period, was, among other activities, employed by the eminent potter, Josiah Wedgwood, to model some of his finest productions; in this branch of art Flaxman had already gained European fame. His stay of five years in Rome and the knowledge acquired there inspired him to attempt the direct reproduction of classical antiquities, such as we see in this splendid pair of urns.

823. Superb Gilded Silver Soupière Made by Jean Baptiste Claude Odiot for Count Nikolai Demidoff

Paris, 1800-12

Formed of two winged draped female caryatids kneeling and supporting on their upraised hands a circular bowl with loose liner and slightly domed cover. The cover is surmounted by a finely chiseled fruited finial and bears two coats of arms consisting of lions supporting a double oval shield charged with rampant lions ensigned by a coronet and with medallion pendant enclosing the monogram L A. The bowl is enriched with a frieze of voluted grapevines among which are entwined dolphins and clusters of wheat, and intersected by Medusa masks. The circular base is bordered with a running band of formalized leaves and arabesques and bears the same arms. Stamped with Odiot's mark and name in full. With extra liner. Weight, about 310 ounces.

Height, 16½ inches; diameter, 11 inches

Note: This soupière, the one following, and the two pairs of oviform entrée platters [Numbers 825 and 826] are part of a magnificent gilded silver service ordered by Count Nikolai Demidoff from the great Paris goldsmith Odiot, during his residence in Paris in the early years of the nineteenth century. An account of this purchase appears in the books of Odiot et Cie., the existing firm. Each article bears the arms of Mme. de la Chapelle, friend of Count Demidoff, who was associated with the Imperial family. The entire service was exhibited in 1823 at the Luxembourg, then called the Musée des Arts Modernes du Luxembourg. At the present time a collection of original models and replicas of objects which form part of the Demidoff service are exhibited at the Musée des Arts Decoratifs, Gallery Number 5. (See biographical note on Jeon Baptiste Claude Odiot.)

Count Nikolai Demidoff was born near St. Petersburg in 1774 and inherited a huge fortune. He spent a considerable time in Paris and Florence, where his two sons, Paul and Anatole, were born. The latter married Princess Mathilde Bonaparte, and is known for his famous art collections, which were dispersed at the outstanding art sale of the nineteenth century.

The objects described here came later into the possession of a titled Anglo-American family.

Woven into the right panel border is the signature J B OUDRY and the date 1747. Elaborately carved and gilded frame of later date, lined with Louis Seize flowered and striped silk brocade.

Note: Concerning Jean Baptiste Oudry's connection with the Gobelins Tapestry Manufactory, Lady Dilke in French Decoration and Furniture in the Eighteenth Century makes the following remarks: "At about the same date, Fagon determined to revive, if possible, the ancient prosperity of the tapestry factories founded by Colbert, at Beauvais, and he entrusted Oudry—who had been attached to the establishment for some years as peintre-dessinateur—with the work. The letters patent conferred on him and his associate, Besnier, bear the date March 23, 1734, and two years later, the general inspection of the Gobelins was, as we have seen, conferred on him. . . . As we have seen, Oudry had exercised the privilege conferred on painters by old custom of inspecting the work in course of execution at the Gobelins from his own designs. . . ."

902. FLEMISH RENAISSANCE TAPESTRY PANEL Late XVI Century

THE PUNIC WARS. The battle is now at its height, with soldiery struggling in ships, war galleys, and small boats and masses of troops—infantry and cavalry—with spears, emerging from a camp in the left middle distance. On the grass in the foreground is a warrior in green corselet and brown cloak running with leveled lance toward two travellers, the man standing and leaning on a spear, the woman seated, eating and drinking. Finished with border similar to the preceding.

905. IMPORTANT BRUSSELS RENAISSANCE GARDEN TAPESTRY XVI Century

Magnificent vista of a park divided into formal plots of grass and flowers in the Italian manner, bordered by balustrade fences and centring a tall arched pergola with a long perspective vista; in the distance are mansions, ruins, and a river, crossed by a fortified bridge in a landscape thickly wooded with trees in summer verdure. The scene is enlivened with numerous figures of nymphs gardening, a falconer with his hawk, male gardeners, a noble and lady walking beneath a pergola, and other personages; peacocks and other exotic fowl strut amid flowering shrubs, and a lynx and a hare crouch in the right foreground.

The fine pergola border is patterned with urns of flowers and pendent clusters of fruit, with figures of putti, grotesques, a pelican in her Piety, and vignettes with hunting scenes, together with numerous larger figures of classical personages, with a group of the Virgin and Child, a saint and an angel, with cherubs below at centre. Lower border with Brussels mark BB and shield. Height, 11 feet 7 inches; length, 12 feet 10 inches

906. BRUSSELS RENAISSANCE TAPESTRY XVI Century

CARTHAGINIAN TRIUMPH. Long tapestry depicting a procession moving majestically towards the right and led by priests and warriors, behind whom follow men and women attending a chariot drawn by two elephants, in which is an angelic figure sounding a trumpet; in the rear, again, follow soldiers and counselors on foot. In the background are the columns of temples, pyramids, and groups of ruins. Brown border with festoons of fruit and blue, white, and rose draperies suspended from cartouches and mascarons; the left and right borders with figures of caryatids hung with pendants of fruit. One dated 1552(?). Woven in a great variety of colors and richly high-lighted in silk.

907. RARE TOURNAI GOTHIC HUNTING TAPESTRY AFTER GILLES LE CASTRE

Circa 1520

The scene depicts a boar hunt, which takes place in a paddock surrounded by a green wattle fence enclosed by an elaborate traceried scarlet iron gate with tall posts surmounted by urns bearing pennants; inside the enclosure at the left, a huntsman in brown tunic with his hounds is pursuing the boar on foot, the animal having reached the boundaries of the enclosure upon the other side of the fountain; behind the man are the figures of two brown wild geese scurrying into flight. The foreground is occupied by two huntsmen with their hounds: the one at the right in brown jerkin with blue sleeves, carrying a spear, the other in blue tunic also holding a spear and winding a hunting horn.

6100

The scene is beautified with tall flowering shrubs—poppies, heartsease, daisies, and geraniums with green foliage; above, in the distance, are grassy knolls with tufts of bents. At the left is perceived the figure of a hare running from the scene of action. The ground of a tête de nègre hue, against which the rich coloring stands out in superb detail.

Height, 8 feet; length, 8 feet 6 inches

Note: Through the researches of Messrs. A. de la Grange and Louis Cloquet in Etudes sur l'Art à Tournai, 1889, the identity of Gilles le Castre as the designer of the famous Voyage de Caluce tapestries—an imaginative series depicting medieval travels in India, and which survives in fragmentary hangings—seems to have been well established. This Gilles le Castre was a 'portraitist' or draughtsman of cartoons in the studio of Jacques Froidure of Tournai in 1491, Froidure in turn being a pupil of the famous Le Feire family of Tournai. Dr. Ackerman, in a discussion which is too long to be reproduced here, arrives at the conclusion that the present tapestry and its companion were designed by the same artist as the Voyage de Caluce hangings, and were executed in one of the ateliers of the weaving family of the Poissoniers at Tournai.

The type of Gothic hunting tapestry with central paddock is well known and has been studied in great detail. Another variation of the present tapestry, in a private collection in Barcelona, is illustrated in Dr. Ackerman's monograph (vide infra) as Plate IX; and we may record further variations of this subject in the catalogue of the Kermaingant collection sold at the American Art Association in 1926, and in the collection of Herr Bernheimer of Munich, illustrated in H. Göbel, Wandteppiche, 1923, I, Vol. II, Plate 255. Attention is called to the fine preservation and rich coloring of the present pair of hangings.

908. Rare Tournai Gothic Hunting Tapestry after Gilles le Castre

Circa 1520

The scene resembles in general detail the preceding; in the centre is again the green wattle fence with the traceried red iron gate, enclosed by pillars of different design with artichoke finials, and in the centre of the enclosure appears again the fountain with the swimming ducks. On its left is a young huntsman in crimson doublet and blue hose with a horn slung over his left shoulder; on the opposite side his companion, similarly clad, is aiming a crossbow. In the foreground below, before the gate, the melée is taking place; four greyhounds are setting upon the wounded animal, a man in blue jerkin and red hose at the right plunging a spear simultaneously into its side. Figures of a hare, wild fowl, and other game, are also discernible amid the profusely flowering shrubs. The coloring is closely similar to that of the preceding tapestry.

909. TOURNAI GOTHIC VERDURE TAPESTRY WITH ANIMALS Circa 1525

Tête de nègre ground almost entirely covered by a thicket of large curling green acanthus leaves bearing conventionalized sunflowers, pomegranates, lotus, and other blossoms in blue, red, tan, and ivory; amid the flowers are delightful figures of pheasants, peacocks, falcons, doves, and other birds, together with ferocious lions, wildcats, a dog, lynxes climbing the branches, a winged griffin, and other animals, woven mostly en camaïeu in tan, picked out in blue and red.

5400-

The rich red border shows already the influence of the early Renaissance; a running design in shades of blue, tan, and ivory exhibits the familiar stylized urns of flowers and fruit with leaf scrollings and trailing blossoms; at the corners are four small urns of apples upon dies of deep blue. Height, 11 feet 2 inches; length, 19 feet 2 inches

Note: This verdure tapestry is, according to Dr. Ackerman, closely related to the two hunting tapestries [Numbers 907 and 908] in which the personages and animals have gradually assumed a predominating importance in the compositions, while the floral details have become subsidiary to the general scheme. The present design is of its kind unique, and one of the most ambitious of this class; compared to the verdure in the Zurich Museum, illustrated as Plate VII of The Rockefeller McCormick Tapestries, it is seen to be more strongly influenced by a Renaissance feeling, which appears not only in the François Ier border, but also as a kind of suggestion in the voluted forms of the foliage. The tapestry has been attributed by the same author to the atelier of the Poissonier family of Tournai.

Described and illustrated in Phyllis Ackerman, The Rockefeller McCormick Tapestries, 1932, No. 1, Plates 1 and 2

910. BRUSSELS TAPESTRY XVII Century

911. TOURNAI (OR OUDENAARDE) GOTHIC MILLEFLEURS TAPESTRY AFTER ANTOINE FIERRET Circa 1525

FOUR PROVERBS. The tan field is beautified with a millefleurs pattern of delicate clusters of marguerites, pinks, columbines, forget-me-nots, and other flowers, with young green leafage, interspersed with figures of pheasants, partridges, quail, and other game birds. Four circular medallions wreathed in green leafage, embellished with fruit and flowers, the wreaths tied with twisted blue and white ribbons, depict allegories: Death weighing king and peasant in a balance; a page with a dagger in his hand feeding his dog; bees swarming in the helmet of a dead warrior; and the figure of a richly robed courtier carrying a lady upon his back, with the caption VERITE. Height, 9 feet 10 inches; length, 11 feet 9 inches

2100-

Note: Antoine Fierret was the son and pupil of Pierre Fierret, the famous tapestry designer of Bruges and Tournai, who became in 1483 Master of the Tournai Guild of St. Luke, the corporation of the tapissiers. The work of Antoine Fierret, his son, has been identified from a signature on a romance tapestry in the Wildenstein collection, and another tapestry showing his characteristic draughtsmanship, from the collection of Messrs. Böhler & Steinmeyer, was in the Arts Club of Chicago Exhibition (vide infra) No. 13. Attributable to Antoine Fierret are also the well known millefleurs with scenes from seignorial life in the Cluny Museum. See also De la Grange et Cloquet, Etudes sur l'Art à Tournai, 1888, pp. 72-8.

Dr. Phyllis Ackerman, due to whose researches these and other facts concerning the Fierrets are known, has suggested ingenious interpretations of the proverbs in the present tapestry, formulating them in such phrases as the following: "All weigh equally in the scales of Death"; "Beware the man who bears gifts and a sword"; "Bees will swarm at any hive"; "He who attempts to support Truth assumes a heavy burden".
